TO INSTALL BUSINESS SCIENCE IN NAVY YARDS

Secretary Appoints Commission to Establish Modern "Efficiency" Management.

Washington, April 6.—To introduce a system of scientific management in the navy yards, Secretary of the Navy Meyer has appointed H. I. Smith, Harrington, Emerson and Charles F. May as a commission of experts to visit the principal eastern yards, with a view to installing improved methods. The commission is with the battleship fleet in the southern drill grounds, witnessing the firing practice, to get a clear idea of the conditions of the navy yards, the work of which consists principally of maintaining and repairing the war vessels. To complete this commission a board of naval officers will be appointed to visit industrial establishments where scientific management has been installed.

NEW DEATH-DEALING DEVICE FOR AERIAL USE

Invention Patented by the Krupp Works Will Change Warfare Plans in the Air.

Washington, April 6.—A new death-dealing device for use in aerial warfare has been patented by the Krupp works. It consists of a highly sensitive fuse, which insures the explosion of a projectile upon impact with the target. The fuse is so constructed that it is not affected by the rotation of the projectile, and it is so sensitive that it will explode at a distance of 100 feet from the target. NEW SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE-MINDED

College, St. Augustine School and the Roman Catholic Orphanage—are expected to receive $60,000 for additional dormitory buildings.

The elimination of the possibility of a fight over the majority in the impending city campaign by the withdrawal of Mayor J. Stann Wynne, the "good government" Mayor, leaving J. Johnson, whom he defeated in the sensational campaign two years ago, without any opposition, greatly simplifies the situation here, and leaves no ground for any strenuous campaign at all. Johnson is understood to have pledged the "good government" forces that he will give them hearty cooperation, supporting most, if not all, their aldermanic candidates put in the field by their mass-meeting last night.

The Seaboard Air Line yard employees here find that during March the road handled through Raleigh the enormous quantity of 24,000 solid cars of freight, besides broken shipments, and that probably two-thirds of this was fertilizer. The fact is noted that there is a shortage this season in truck shipments North, compared with the record for last season.

TILDEN IS READY TO TELL HIS STORY

He Had Not Been Informed of Investigating Committee's Adjournment.

Springfield, Ill., April 6.—While a score of newspaper reporters searched Springfield hotels, cafes and clubs to-day for Edward Tilden, he was walking about the corridors of the Capitol Building, trying to deliver himself to the Helm bribery committee under a subpoena served upon him yesterday in Chicago, directing him to appear to-day. It was made out by the committee prior to the taking of Clarence S. Funk's testimony yesterday. Through some oversight the process server failed to notify Mr. Tilden of the committee's adjournment until next Thursday, and that in consequence his presence would not be necessary until that time. As soon as Mr. Tilden learned of this he took a train back to Chicago.

Lack of acquaintance in legislative circles enabled the president of the National Packing Company to roam through the State House without his presence being discovered. Persons to whom Tilden applied for information in an effort to locate Chairman Helm of the Senate bribery committee, did not know him, and he did not make his identity known.

Unable to find Chairman Helm, Mr. Tilden sought Senator Logan Hay, another member of the Senate bribery committee. To the Senator he explained that the subpoena directed his presence before the committee this afternoon. Senator Hay explained the error, and notified Tilden of the adjournment, and released him until next Thursday.

Senator Hay informed no one of the matter, and Mr. Tilden returned to Chicago without being subjected to an interview. Despite the fact that the Senate inquirers are keeping their plans secret, many House members to-day gained the impression that the committee has prepared to summon them before it. Subsequent House members probably will result in a clash between the two bodies, the outcome of which cannot be foreseen.

Two process servers who are now engaged in summoning witnesses to appear next Thursday are expected to be kept busy serving subpoenas throughout the State until the early part of next week.

Has Nothing to Say.

Johnston, April 6.—United States Senator William Lorimer, of Illinois, who came here to-day on private business, would not discuss the investigation into his election as Senator by the Legislature at Springfield, Ill. Neither would he comment upon the resolution of Senator La Follette, introduced in the Senate to-day at Washington, calling for a reopening of the Lorimer case by a Senate committee.

When Mr. Lorimer received the news of the La Follette resolution, he said: "I make it a rule to never discuss for publication matters which affect me personally."

The Senator was accompanied by the Very Rev. J. F. Green, president of St. Rita's College, of Chicago, and W. A. Keating, a Chicago engineer. They came here to witness a demonstration of a tunneling machine which is digging a hole through a hill a few miles from this city for the Valley Stone and Coal Company.

The Senator said he had planned to leave for Washington at 10:15 to-night, and when he reached the Capitol about 8:40 A. M. his plans "would be more or less indefinite."

New School in Use.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lynchburg, Va., April 6.—The new Miller Park public school building, which cost the city $20,000, exclusive of the site, has just been occupied. The new building takes the place of a frame school which came into the city by annexation three years ago. The new school building will not be ready for use before September.

Funeral of John Bagley.

The funeral of John Bagley will be held from St. Peter's Church this morning at 10 o'clock, with requiem high mass. The services will be conducted by Father McKeefrey, assisted by the clergy of the diocese.

Mr. Bagley was one of the oldest and most esteemed merchants of Church Hill, where he lived for more than fifty years. He came here from Ireland in early youth, and for a number of years, after attending the local schools, he worked at the Tredgar Works. After the war he started business on Church Hill, and has been one of the representative and successful business men ever since. He was well-known and beloved by most of the prominent business men of the city of the present and past decades. For some years he was a figure in local politics. He was charitable and many poor persons and families of not only Church Hill, but other sections of the city, will miss him.

Old Mace Purkins, as he was usually and lovingly called, was as well known in his brigade as any other private, being member of the ambulance corps, which brought him in close touch with other commands, and the war believes has the distinction of having borne from the battlefields as many wounded and dead as any other man. He was appointed to that position on account of his great physical strength, together with a sympathetic nature, which he possessed to a large degree. His loyalty to his friends was unbounded, and frequently manifested on the march, by helping some lame or sick comrade. At the same time his duty to others was not slighted. His home relations were ideal, and he leaves a loving wife and two daughters to mourn their loss. May Heaven's blessing be upon the wife and children in this their great bereavement.
